Buffalo Turbine Introduces World's First Electric Turbine Debris Blowers.

SPRINGVILLE, N.Y. [October 16, 2024] – Buffalo Turbine introduces the groundbreaking Buffalo Turbine Cyclone eKB, the world's first zero emissions, electric-powered turbine debris blower, this week at the Equip Exposition in Louisville, Kentucky.

The new Buffalo Turbine Cyclone eKB expands available power options. It's ideal for residential and commercial locations where the benefits of re-chargeable electric and quieter equipment are preferred. It complements Buffalo Turbine's existing line-up, which includes PTO, hydraulic, and various gasoline and diesel engine powered models.

Efficiently tackle many different debris removal tasks with the Buffalo Turbine Cyclone eKB. Legendary turbine force air performance is similar to other Buffalo Turbine models. Combined with the wireless remote 360-degree nozzle rotation, it efficiently saves contractors and property managers valuable time and labor.

The Buffalo Turbine Cyclone eKB is built on a rugged, heavy duty frame for long lasting durability. Flexibility in tight areas is possible with its integrated three position retractable hitch. Two positions accommodate different tow vehicle configurations. The third position collapses entirely for space savings on a trailer or in storage.

Buffalo Turbine debris blowers are known throughout the industry for their quality construction and performance since 1945. The Buffalo Turbine Cyclone eKB is also made in the USA and backed with the same 10 year limited warranty.
